

Amy Finlayson and Emma Taylor

"I'm having serious red wine phobia in this outfit"

Chandon Supper Club Launch

BLANCO, KINGS CROSS: TUESDAY, MARCH 30

One of the proudest charity traditions in Sydney is the annual Chandon Supper Club, which involves 50 separately hosted dinner parties taking place simultaneously at the city's best restaurants to raise funds for Camp Quality. The friends and supporters of the cause (who in the past have included Kerri-Anne Kennerley, Deborah Hutton and Jennifer Hawkins), gathered at divine new Kings Cross restaurant Blanco to officially start this year's event and reveal some details about the charity initiative. This year, the event will take on a "White Magic" theme, with a white-hot list of celebrities already signing up for the cause. Network Ten newsreader Kathryn Robinson wowed the crowd in a white dress and Paspaley pearls, and joined others including avid supporter Justin Hemmes, Kelly Landry and Hugh Sheridan who enjoyed delicious bites from Blanco's head chef Scott Mason. This year's event aims to raise one million dollars with dinners held around Australia.

Tammy Tucker and Justin North

Chris Reason and Kathryn Robinson

Simon Chalmers and Bianca Cheah

Kelly Landry

Justin Hemmes, Amber L'Estrange and Hugh Sheridan

STEALTH CRUISES

Be the first to experience the HOTTEST NEW MALE REVUE
StealthCruises.com.au or just call 8296 7366